Forecast for Sunday 03 Apr 2022

Weather: Cold and frosty to start Sunday with clear skies slowly giving way to sunny spells from late morning as cloud bubbles up. A largely dry day with only the odd chance of a light shower. Skies will cloud over more generally at the very end of the afternoon.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 600m: 90% or higher for much of the day, dropping to 60% in the final few hours of the day.

Low cloud and visibility: Largely good visibility with cloud remaining above the summits except for the odd shower bringing cloud to 800m and temporary reductions in visibility. Cloud lowering to 600-800m in the last couple of hours of the day, reducing visibility on the highest summits.

Meteorologist's View

A cold and frosty morning Sunday will make some paths slippery, however despite the sunshine it will also feel cold so good outdoor wear is recommended if heading out into the hills and mountains.

Forecast for Monday 04 Apr 2022

Weather: Cloud and rain will arrive across the Brecon Beacons during the early hours of Monday morning, and only gradually clear south and east by mid morning, leaving the areas cloudy with further outbreaks of rain and drizzle, especially across upslopes in the west.

Maximum wind: Westerly 15-20mph near summits, gusting to 30-35mph

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 600m: 15%

Low cloud and visibility: Visibility generally good outside of any spells of rain when they will deteriorate to poor. Cloud bases near 400m for much of the day, but with a gradual improvement across eastern areas during the afternoon as cloud bases lift and break up a little.

Temperature: Valleys: Plus 7 Celsius rising to 13 Celsius.
At 600m: Minus 3 Celsius rising to minus -1 Celsius.
Freezing level: 200m rising to 600m by late afternoon.
